Dear Ann,

I've done something really exciting. I've jumped off a bridge. Can you believe it?

It was a really high bridge, over the river Avon, but I didn't fall into the water. It was a bungee jump! I did it with three friends to get some money for our local hospital.

The people who organized the jump said it wasn't dangerous, but it felt dangerous. When I looked down before I jumped I felt terrible. I think my whole body was shaking! Then I closed my eyes, counted to three, and jumped. It was great! I had a wonderful feeling of freedom, for about five seconds. And then I stopped, just a few metres above the water.

When I told the people at work they didn't believe me. But I showed them a video of the jump, and in the end, they all gave me some money. I've got more than two hundred pounds for the hospital.

Now I want to do something different, like jumping out of an aeroplane. My friends think I must be mad. But you only live once!

What about you? Have you done anything exciting recently?

Write soon, love,

Katie
